

The graduate experience at the University of Michigan brings you into a community of scholars, researchers, and students.

At the University of Michigan the Rackham Graduate School

- ▶ Offers degrees in over 130 programs of study
- ▶ Works in conjunction with the University's 18 schools and colleges
- ▶ Recruits applicants, administers the admissions process, and serves students through the final stages of degree attainment
- ▶ Awards on average more than 2,500 graduate degrees each year

Our more than 91,000 alumni of the University of Michigan are a diverse group of people who utilize their talents and training to transform our global community in thousands of ways throughout the world.

The primary web site for graduate studies (www.rackham.umich.edu) is an excellent reference for the graduate programs and wide range of student services available. Here you will find help in making a decision about pursuing your graduate education at the University of Michigan.

The admissions office (www.rackham.umich.edu/admissions/) works in conjunction with the graduate degree programs to

- ▶ Administer the application and admissions process
- ▶ Monitor requirements and procedures
- ▶ Certify the admission recommendations from programs of study as appropriate

Detailed information on Master's and doctoral degree programs at the University of Michigan is available through an easy-to-use online guide (www.rackham.umich.edu/academic_information/programs/).

Here you also will find information on

- ▶ Interdisciplinary opportunities
- ▶ Graduate course requirements
- ▶ Non-Rackham programs of study
- ▶ Dual degree programs of study
- ▶ Programs of study offered at the University of Michigan Dearborn and Flint campuses

Application forms, instructions concerning admission, financial award procedures, and general information about the University of Michigan and the community are all available on the Graduate School's website.

Questions? Contact Grad.Student.Success@umich.edu.